When looking at a work of art, students might be asked to:

describe it.

- What do you see in this picture? What else do you see?
- What words would you use to describe this painting? What other words might we use?
- What does this painting show?
- How would you describe the lines in this picture? The colors?
- How would you describe this painting to a person who hasn't seen it?
- How would you describe the people in this picture? How are they like you? How are they different from you?

relate it.

- · What things do you recognize in this work of art?
- What does this painting remind you of?
- How is this painting like the one we just saw? How is it different?
- · What do they two paintings have in common?
- How is this picture different from real life?
- What interests you most about this work of art?

analyze it.

- What is the largest and the smallest thing you see in this picture?
- What objects seem closest to you? Further away?
- What can you tell me about the colors in this painting?
- What can you tell me about the person in this painting? What can you tell me about how this person lived? What makes you say that?
- Which colors seem closer to you? Further away? Why?
- What color is used the most in this painting?
- What do you think is the most important part of this picture? Why?
- How do you think the artist made this work of art?
- What questions would you ask the artist about this work, if s/he were here?

interpret it.

- What title would you give to this painting?
- What sounds would this painting make (if it could)?
- What can you tell us about the person in this painting?
- What do you think this painting is about? Why do you think that?
- Pretend you are inside this painting. What does it feel like?
- Why do you think the artist made this painting?

evaluate it.

- Why do you think other people should see this work of art?
- What do you think your parents would say about this painting?
- What grade would you give the artist for this painting? Why?
- What would you do with this work of art if you owned it?
- What do you think is important to remember about this painting?